GBV Interventions of Educo Bangladesh

Educo is a global development and humanitarian action INGO based in Barcelona, Spain with over 30 years of working experience in 14 countries. Since 1999, Educo Bangladesh works with children and their environment to promote just and equitable societies that guarantee their rights and well-being. Our long-term and impact-orientated projects are fully aligned with the three strategic priorities of Education, Protection, and Governance. The four major programmatic areas encompassed by Educo projects include Safe and Quality Education, Early Childhood Care & Education, Elimination of GVB, Children Free from Violence and Exploitation, and Children and Youth Empowerment and Global Citizenship. Currently, Educo Bangladesh is implementing programs in 11 districts in partnership with 15 national NGOs for ensuring the rights and well-being of the people.

GBV is one of the focus areas of Educo's intervention in Bangladesh. Educo believes that the causes of GVB are multidimensional including social, economic, cultural, political, and religious. Our ongoing interventions aim to protect children, adolescents, and youth, particularly girls and women from violence & exploitation and ensure their rights to live with dignity.
